Training and Safety Courses

We offer OSHA and ANSI operator safety training for boom lifts and scissors, forklifts and material handlers, and truck mounted lifts. The training provides proper education on the safety and operation of equipment and covers all current regulations in force. On most job sites, it is required that operators be trained on this equipment and have proof they attended a safety class. Upon the successful completion of the class, participants are awarded a signed safety training certificate from the safety instructor.

Sales and Rentals

We rent and sell new and reconditioned equipment. Our sales and rental team represent loyalty and experience. We build strong relationships with exceptional customers that understand the cost quality ratio within the industry and rely upon our service and experience.

What sets us apart from our competition is our team commitment to quality and efficiency.

Service and Parts

Our mechanic team is comprised of factory-trained field and service mechanics. These skill sets benefit our customers providing quick and accurate diagnostics along with proper adjustments according to the manufacturers' specifications.

Blakley's industry specific customer driven ancillary services and capabilities, mechanic staff, parts program and safety training programs enable us to not only streamline our operations and ensure we provide quality products and service, but also benefit our customers.
